Headline results

NOV (B2C business)	Adjusted Revenue	Adjusted EBITDA
INR 20,183 crore	INR 7,563 crore	INR 172 crore
▲ 55%	▲ 67%	▼ 42%
YoY growth	YoY growth	YoY growth

Key takeaways

1. Quick commerce growth momentum continued – 243 net new stores added; NOV grew 127% YoY (25% QoQ) to INR 9,203 crore, surpassing food delivery quarterly NOV for the first time.
2. Quick commerce Adjusted EBITDA losses reduced QoQ to INR 162 crore (from INR 178 crore in Q4FY25) with Adjusted EBITDA margin improving from -2.4% to -1.8% of NOV.
3. Food delivery NOV growth remained subdued at 13%YoY (9% QoQ), driven by continued softness in demand; Adjusted EBITDA margins improved to 5.0% from 3.9% a year ago while declining QoQ to 5.0% of NOV (from 5.2% in Q4FY25).
4. District growing well promising to become a large and profitable business.

More details in the following pages.

Notes:

1) NOV (B2C business) is defined as the combined net order value (NOV) of consumer facing businesses i.e. food delivery, quick commerce and going-out.
2) Adjusted Revenue defined as consolidated revenue from operations as per financials (+) actual customer delivery charges paid in the food delivery business (net of any discounts, including free delivery discounts on Zomato Gold program) (+) platform fee paid in the food delivery business (that is not already included in reported revenue from operations).
3) Adjusted EBITDA defined as consolidated EBITDA (+) share-based payment expense (-) rental paid for the period pertaining to 'Ind AS 116 leases'.

In the letter below, we address the key questions that we think investors might have. Please refer to Annexure A for the key financial and operating metrics data.

Q1. How was the overall business performance in Q1FY26?

Akshant: NOV of our B2C businesses grew 55% YoY (16% QoQ) to INR 20,183 crore in Q1FY26. This was the first quarter where our quick commerce NOV exceeded food delivery NOV for the full quarter. On an annualized basis, we are now at almost $10 billion of annual NOV across our B2C businesses and quick commerce is now our largest B2C business contributing to almost half of this annualized NOV.

Our B2B business Hyperpure's Revenue grew 89% YoY (25% QoQ). We expect de-growth in this business in the next few quarters (more on that later in this letter).

Consolidated Adjusted Revenue grew 67% YoY (22% QoQ) to INR 7,563 crore - the growth rates here have been pretty steady at 50%+ for the past 11 quarters.

On the profitability front, consolidated Adjusted EBITDA declined 42% YoY to INR 172 crore in Q1FY26, largely on account of the continuing investments in quick commerce and going-out, which were partly offset by the improvement in food delivery Adjusted EBITDA margin (as a % of NOV) to 5.0% from 3.9% a year ago.

Q2. What's driving leadership changes in food delivery, and who is Aditya Mangla?

Deepinder: At Eternal, we operate with a model we call Rotational Leadership, where the CEO role of each business is time-bound, typically for a two-year term. This approach brings structural agility to leadership, ensuring that no role becomes static and that fresh energy enters the system at regular intervals.

Rotational Leadership is not about changing faces; it changes how decisions get made. Leaders move with urgency, knowing their window to create impact is finite. It reduces complacency, accelerates execution, and allows more diverse leadership styles to emerge. Over time, it also builds organisational muscle memory, as teams learn to operate independently of any one person, making us more resilient and adaptable as we grow.

From my lens, this model is designed to mitigate succession risk, decentralise execution, and future-proof the organisation. It forces clarity in systems and builds companies that are led by principles, not personalities.

However, Rotational Leadership is not something that can be used for all companies at all points in time. It is only useful for companies –

a) Where the culture values systems more than individuals
b) When companies have already achieved product-market fit
c) Where companies operate in volatile markets, and fresh leadership can bring in new energy and approaches to fast-changing landscapes
d) When building future leaders is a priority

Rotational leadership is NOT a good idea for –

a) Companies at an early stage, where the business requires deep long term vision and continuity
b) Companies in survival/crisis mode

Within Eternal, different businesses fit into different moulds. Only Zomato is at a point where rotational leadership makes sense to us so far.

Looking ahead, at Zomato, we are working on grooming product and technology-first operators to lead our businesses in the future. This is already in motion, not just at the top, but across levels. The result is a leadership pipeline that is wider, deeper, and built for the next few decades, not just the next quarter.

Aditya Mangla has been with us for over four years, is from a product/engineering background, and has held various roles at Zomato, including leading product, supply, and customer support/experience. This is the first time in the 17 year history of Zomato, that someone from product/engineering is leading the business (outside of me, of course). I am super excited to see how Aditya shapes the future of Zomato over the next two years, until it is time to hand over the baton to someone else.

Q3. NOV growth in food delivery dipped to 13% YoY from 14% and the gap between GOV and NOV growth widened in the last quarter. What is the outlook here?

Deepinder: I think the YoY growth is likely to bottom out now as we recover from the demand slowdown we started seeing in late 2024. For FY26, it looks unlikely that the business will deliver a 20%+ NOV growth but we should be north of 15% and hopefully trending towards 20% YoY growth in FY27.

In response to the sluggish demand environment, we saw a QoQ increase in restaurant funded discounts (as a % of GOV) in Q1FY26, which led to the slightly lower NOV growth vis-à-vis GOV growth during the quarter (NOV = GOV minus discounts). We expect such quarterly fluctuations to be a regular feature as restaurants calibrate their investments in discounts in response to changes in the demand environment.

Akshant: Going forward, we will only be disclosing NOV (and will discontinue disclosing GOV), as we believe that NOV is a better measure of growth in our B2C businesses including food delivery.

Q4. While the margins expanded YoY in food delivery, QoQ decline was surprising given the margins have only gone upwards in the past 14 quarters. What was the reason for this decline?

Deepinder: Every year in Q1, margins get impacted (in both food delivery and quick commerce), because of lower availability of delivery partners due to festivals and adverse weather conditions (onset of summer and rains in different parts of the country). In the past, in the food delivery business, this pressure on margins in Q1s used to be offset by improvement in other areas; but now that margins have matured in this business, such fluctuations driven by seasonal factors are possible.

Long term, we believe there is further scope of some margin expansion but the current focus is on ramping up investments to drive further growth in the business, while maintaining margins in the 5% (of NOV) ballpark.

Q5. Do you see any risk from new entrants in food delivery?

Deepinder: New ideas, new entrants and disruption are all inevitable. I think it also makes our business stronger as long as we are able to learn, adapt and out-innovate potential competition. At this point, we do not see any innovation in the space which makes us believe that this business is under any obvious threat.

Q6. Can you give us an update on the Going-out business (District)?

Deepinder: I am excited about where we have gotten to in this business, and the journey that lies ahead.

Going-out is now a INR 8,000 crore annualized NOV business (Q1FY26 NOV*4) which is about 20% of the size of our food delivery and quick commerce businesses. And, on a like for like basis, growing at 30%+ YoY.

In Q1FY26, we had about 2 million average monthly transacting customers transacting ~2 times a month on an average with a net AOV (NAOV) of INR 1,700+.

We are building District as a one-of-a-kind platform for going-out in India by offering large going-out use cases including dining-out, movies, sports, concert ticketing etc. on a single app, for the most premium customer base in the country.

Akshant: Our average revenue per order today is INR 160+, which is meaningfully higher than our food delivery and quick commerce businesses.

If we execute well, this business has the potential to scale to $3 billion in annual topline (NOV) with $150m of Adjusted EBITDA sometime over the next five years.

Q7. Moving to Blinkit, can you walk us through the key highlights in Q1FY26?

Albinder: We added 243 net new stores this quarter, taking our store count to 1,544 stores by the end of the quarter. We are on track to get to 2,000 stores by Dec 2025. We also added 0.4 million sq ft of warehousing space and now operate over 5.6 million sq ft of warehousing space across the country (including store area, we now manage ~10.4 million sq ft of area across our entire supply chain).

NOV grew 127% YoY driven by a 123% YoY growth in average monthly transacting customers (MTC) from 7.6 million to 16.9 million over the past year.

On the profitability front, the margins improved from -2.4% of NOV in Q4FY25 to -1.8% despite continued investments in new store roll-outs and seasonal factors as mentioned by Deepinder in response to Q4 above.

Q8. Is it fair to say that quarterly losses may have peaked out and margins should continue to improve from here on?

Albinder: The long term profitability of the business is not a concern. Despite the investments in long term infrastructure and high competition, a large portion of our business is already profitable with some cities at 2.5%+ Adjusted EBITDA margin (as a % of NOV). Getting to these margins in some cities so early in this business, is a testament to the feasibility of our long term guidance of 5-6% margin.

As far as near-term is concerned, it does feel like % margins have bottomed out and, if the competitive environment stays the same, we should see margins getting better from here as a large number of stores that we opened in the past 12 months will mature. In fact, even the absolute losses should come down from hereon. But the margin improvement journey may not be linear and there could be some bumps along the way if the competitive intensity goes-up again for whatever reason.

The opportunity in front of us is massive, which means that the competition in this space is also very high. We see an influx of new players in this segment every now and then, and we see varying aggression by existing competitors depending on their balance sheet and near-term growth objectives. Under no circumstances, will we let go of our market position here, and lose sight of the size of the prize in the long term.

Q9. What about smaller cities; is there a line of sight on profitability in those as well?

Albinder: Yes, the smaller cities are equally promising as far as profitability is concerned. The difference in Net AOV (NAOV) of our large and small cities is fairly narrow at ~10%. Hence, after accounting for lower cost of operations in smaller cities, there is early evidence that margins will be attractive even in smaller cities.

Q10. In that case, what do you think is the opportunity beyond the 2,000 stores?

Albinder: We see enough room for store growth in all cities at this point - including the ones where we have good geographical coverage already. Delhi, for example, is still growing at 70%+ YoY (NOV growth).

We have visibility to get to 3,000 stores today, and we will communicate the timeline for getting there, after we get to our current milestone of 2,000 stores by Dec '25.

Q11. What is leading to Blinkit growing faster and with better economics as compared to others?

Albinder: From our standpoint, we are keeping things simple and making sure we are investing in delivering on our promise to customers. Doing that involves solving for two large problem statements in parallel - a) building a retail business, with a leading edge just-in-time supply chain, and b) an internet and logistics business (like food delivery). Both these problems are extremely hard on their own, and solving these two problems synchronously with each other makes quick commerce multiple times more complex than traditional retail, or food delivery.

We also feel that in our business, the customer is extremely value conscious, but not price conscious. And we try our hardest to deliver the best value to the customer – which is a function of speed, assortment, customer support, and price – in that order. This enables us to make money from all of our customer cohorts, which further enables us to improve upon delivering on our customers' expectations from us. Our revenue per order (net of subsidies), even from new customers, is INR 100+ in month 1 post the month of acquisition, which increases with time. This means that every new customer cohort is break-even at a Contribution level from month 1.

We understand that we might be doing better on growth and economics than our competitors. However, we don't know or understand the reasons behind this gap between us and others. At our end, relative performance is not the bar for us; our bar is absolute and is set for us by our customers. And we don't think we are meeting that bar today. We are working towards making sure that we consistently are a service which is indistinguishable from magic.

Deepinder: Maybe the difference between us and other companies comes from the "dissatisfied" culture in the team. Our teams rarely celebrate wins, keep a low profile, and believe in the 1% done philosophy. We want to keep our heads down, and keep up the momentum in solving problems for our customers, without having or needing to look back to see how far we have come.

Q12. With Eternal having become an Indian Owned and Controlled Company (IOCC), what is the plan for the transition to inventory ownership in quick commerce?

Akshant: First, we would like to thank all our shareholders for their support on the shareholder resolution. The cap on foreign shareholding (at 49.5%) is now in place. As of June 30, 2025, the actual foreign shareholding is at ~43%.

We will be gradually transitioning our quick commerce business from a marketplace model to inventory ownership over the next 2-3 quarters. Our teams are well prepared for this transition and we expect to start working with brands directly without any disruption to the business. Control on inventory gives us more leverage on margins in the business plus allows us to push harder and faster on assortment expansion. We expect to see about 1 percentage point margin expansion over time, as a result of this transition.

As an outcome of this transition, we will also see shrinkage in Hyperpure's non-restaurant business as most of the B2B buyers in that business were sellers on our quick commerce platform.

The impact of the above transition on our financials will be as follows -

1. Quick commerce revenue will become very similar to NOV going forward. Hence, Quick commerce revenue will increase
2. Hyperpure revenue will decrease on account of scale down of non-restaurant business
3. Net working capital (NWC) in quick commerce business will increase (as we start owning inventory) and NWC in Hyperpure business will decrease
4. No change to quick commerce NOV and no change to Hyperpure's restaurant business revenue or profitability

In Q1FY26, about 3% of our NOV was already on our own inventory (which was also the reason quick commerce Revenue grew faster than NOV at 155% YoY (40% QoQ), despite take rate remaining flattish). We expect this share to increase sharply in the next quarter.

Q13. What kind of ROCE can we expect in the quick commerce business with inventory ownership?

Akshant: If we get to 5-6% of Adjusted EBITDA margin (as a % of NOV), ROCE should be at least 40%. Let us explain.

A typical store requires a capex of ~ INR 1 crore including the apportioned capex of the warehouse serving that store - we incurred ~INR 1,000 crore of capex in the last 5 quarters for setting up ~1,000 net new stores and ~2.5 million sqft of warehouse capacity.

At current productivity levels (of INR 7 lacs of NOV per store per day), a store generates ~INR 26 crore of NOV annually. This implies a cumulative capex requirement of ~4% of NOV to run this business (INR 1 crore of capex divided by INR 26 crore of annual NOV).

On the net working capital (NWC) front, as a marketplace business (where we don't own inventory), so far it has been at 3-4 days of NOV (~1% of NOV) (see table below). Going forward however, assuming 100% inventory ownership (hypothetically), we estimate that the NWC requirement would increase to about 18 days (or 5% of NOV).

Quick commerce net working capital (marketplace model)

Net working capital for last 5 quarters

INR crore, unless otherwise mentioned	Q1FY25	Q2FY25	Q3FY25	Q4FY25	Q1FY26
NWC balance as at end of period (a)	222	321	274	273	288
(Increase)/Decrease in NWC	-44	-98	47	1	-15
NOV for the quarter (Annualised) (b)	16,245	19,712	24,080	29,447	36,810
NOV days outstanding ((a)/(b)*365)	5.0	5.9	4.2	3.4	2.9

Hence, total investment comes out to 9% of NOV (4% of capex + 5% of NWC), and assuming an EBIT margin range of 4% of NOV (based on lower end of our guidance of 5-6% Adjusted EBITDA margins), would imply ROCE of 40% in this business.

We think this math is still a little conservative with potential upside as we learn to make the business more efficient over time.

Q14. Why has the Adjusted EBITDA loss in the 'Others' segment increased?

Deepinder: The increase in quarterly losses is largely on account of investments in the 10—minute food delivery service Bistro, where the kitchen infrastructure is owned and operated by Blinkit. We have 38 such kitchens live in Delhi-NCR and Bangalore currently.

Early data is encouraging as the kitchens are generating incremental demand without cannibalizing the Zomato business. Through Bistro, we are tapping into two demand pockets so far unaddressed by Zomato - a) customers looking for high quality but low cost meals (think customers who buy from home chefs) and b) customers looking for snacky food in 10 mins.

While customer side traction is pretty strong, we need to work and find answers to making money in this business. We will therefore continue to make calibrated investments towards building a scalable and profitable business here, and will keep you posted when we have more to share.

In addition to Bistro, we also plan to invest in scaling up Nugget and our newest initiative Greening India (more on that below). For now, we are budgeting INR 150 crore of loss funding across these three initiatives in FY26 which should reflect in the Others segment.

Q15. Can you share an update on the cash balance at the end of Q1FY26?

Akshant: The cash balance increased slightly to INR 18,857 crore in Q1FY26 (vs INR 18,824 crore in Q4FY25).

Of the INR 370 crore capex incurred in Q1FY26, ~INR 310 crore was on account of the expansion of our quick commerce store and warehouse network (the INR 310 crore figure seems high in the context of the 243 net new stores added since it also includes certain payouts for expansion executed in the previous quarter). The balance INR 60 crore of capex was incurred largely towards investments in Bistro kitchens and for the usual IT hardware and other requirements across our businesses.

The QoQ increase in net working capital was also a function of part transition to inventory ownership in quick commerce. The increase would have been much higher if not for part recovery of the ticketing advances given in Q4FY25 in the Going-out business.

Q16. Any update on ESG?

Deepinder: During the quarter we launched Greening India - a first-of-its-kind large-scale agroforestry initiative in India, where we will plant over 2.5 million trees across 10,000 acres of farmland in partnership with thousands of farmers this year (FY26). These trees, once grown, have the potential to remove 1.5 million tonnes of carbon dioxide (CO_2) from earth's atmosphere over the next 30 years.

The amount of CO_2 removed will be measured and verified by global carbon registries such as Verra, which will also issue high quality carbon removal credit certificates to Eternal in lieu of the CO_2 removed. The value of these credits is likely to be multiple times the size of our investment here (~INR 30 crore in FY26 towards saplings, fertilisers, irrigation drips, etc.). We would also have the option of using these high-quality credits to compensate for our residual emissions to achieve our Net Zero target by 2033.

If we execute well, we will meaningfully scale up the land area under this initiative over the coming years.

Use of non-GAAP financial measures

To supplement our financial information presented in accordance with IND AS, we consider certain financial measures that are not prepared in accordance with IND AS, including Adjusted Revenue and Adjusted EBITDA. We use these financial measures in conjunction with IND AS measures as part of our overall assessment of our performance to evaluate the effectiveness of our business strategies and to communicate with our board of directors concerning our business and financial performance. We believe these non-GAAP financial measures provide useful information to investors about our business and financial performance, enhance their overall understanding of our past performance and future prospects, and allow for greater transparency with respect to metrics used by our management in their financial and operational decision making. We are presenting these non-GAAP financial measures to assist our investors and because we believe that these non-GAAP financial measures provide an additional tool for investors to use in comparing results of operations of our business over multiple periods. Information given also includes information related to material subsidiaries.

Non-GAAP measures used by us are defined below:

- Adjusted Revenue = Consolidated revenue from operations as per financials (+) actual customer delivery charges in the food delivery business (net of any discounts, including free delivery discounts on account of Zomato Gold program) (+) platform fee paid in the food delivery business (that is not already included in reported revenue from operations)
- Adjusted EBITDA = Consolidated EBITDA (+) share-based payment expense (-) rental paid for the period pertaining to 'Ind AS 116 leases'
- EBITDA = Profit/loss as per financials excluding (i) tax expense (ii) other income (iii) depreciation and amortization expense (iv) finance cost and (v) exceptional items

These metrics have certain limitations and hence should be considered in addition to, not as substitutes for, or in isolation from, measures prepared in accordance with IND AS.

We conducted our review of the Statement in accordance with the Standard on Review Engagements (SRE) 2410 "Review of Interim Financial Information Performed by the Independent Auditor of the Entity", issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI). A review of interim financial information consists of making inquiries, primarily of Parent's personnel responsible for financial and accounting matters, and applying analytical and other review procedures. A review is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with Standards on Auditing specified under Section 143(10) of the Companies Act, 2013 and consequently does not enable us to obtain assurance that we would become aware of all significant matters that might be identified in an audit. Accordingly, we do not express an audit opinion.

   We also performed procedures in accordance with the circular issued by the SEBI under Regulation 33(8) of the SEBI (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015, as amended, to the extent applicable.

4. The Statement includes the results of the following entities as mentioned in Annexure 1.

Based on our review conducted and procedures performed as stated in paragraph 3 above, nothing has come to our attention that causes us to believe that the accompanying Statement, prepared in accordance with the recognition and measurement principles laid down in the aforesaid Indian Accounting Standard and other accounting principles generally accepted in India, has not disclosed the information required to be disclosed in terms of Regulation 33 of the SEBI (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015, as amended, including the manner in which it is to be disclosed, or that it contains any material misstatement.

6. We draw attention to Note 6 to the consolidated unaudited financial results relating to the orders received by the Company from GST authorities in respect of GST on delivery charges. The Company, supported by the external expert's advice, is of the view that, it has a strong case on merits. Given the uncertainty involved, the ultimate outcome will be ascertained on the disposal of the above matter.

   Our conclusion on the Statement is not modified in respect of this matter.

7. The consolidated unaudited financial results include the financial information of 19 subsidiaries and 1 trust which have not been reviewed by their auditors, whose financial results reflect total revenue of Rs. 77 crores, total loss after tax of Rs 52 crores and total comprehensive loss of Rs 52 crores for the quarter ended June 30, 2025, as considered in the Statement. This financial information is unaudited and have been furnished to us by the Management and our conclusion on the consolidated financial results in so far as it relates to the amounts and disclosures included in respect of these subsidiaries and trust is based solely on such unaudited financial information. According to the information and explanations given to us by the Management, this financial information is not material to the Group.

Due to this acquisition, the results for the quarter ended June 30, 2024 are not comparable with other periods presented.

8 During the quarter ended June 30, 2025, the Group has initiated transition from its marketplace model to a combination of marketplace and inventory-led model in its quick commerce segment.
